

New for 2010, Southern California Professional Horseshow Association (SCPHA) will take a leadership role in rewarding youth for their participation in SCPHA shows. Youth riders (age 12-19) will be able to compete for a $1,500.00 scholarship toward future educational expenses with every point earned in SCPHA youth classes. Youth will apply to the program by paying a one-time $25 fee and complete an application form. They will need to be an SCPHA member, ride in at least 5 shows throughout the 2010 show season, complete an essay, and be interviewed by the SCPHA scholarship committee in order to compete for scholarship money. It's not too late! For more information, contact the SCPHA show manager, Kellie Dunn at 760-212-0217.

For over 50 years SCPHA has been the leader in conducting open show competition in Southern California, providing classes for participants and horses of all skill levels and all ages. Each show offers outstanding awards, and a Year-end Awards Banquet showcases the entire year. The directors of SCPHA strive to offer the equestrian community a professional, affordable venue for the education of horse enthusiasts and the exhibition of show horses in a family-oriented environment.
